Fawley Bryant Selected for Two Country Club Master Plans

Sarasota, Florida, July 26, 2013 – Fawley Bryant was recently hired by two local country clubs to prepare their master plans. The architecture, interior design and planning firm has been engaged by Tara Golf and Country Club for Phase II of their master plan to analyze space utilization in the 16,000+ square foot clubhouse, the pro shop and fitness center. Tampa Bay Golf and Country Club also selected Fawley Bryant to evaluate existing conditions in their 29,000+ square foot clubhouse, welcome center, and community center.

In 2007, Fawley Bryant developed the original master plan for Tara Golf and Country Club, located in Bradenton, Florida. In 2009, major renovations were completed to the clubhouse (including a large kitchen expansion and multiple renovations to dining, grille room and other member-used areas). Construction of the additional expansion and renovations is slated for 2014.

Tampa Bay Golf and Country Club, located in Pasco County has been operated by the original developer since it was built. However, operations of the Club will be turned over to the home-owners & members in 2014. Enhancing member experiences in dining, golf, fitness, card playing and other activities is a priority. Renovations and/or expansion to the facilities will take place over a multi-year schedule to coincide with club operations, seasonal use, and event planning.
